Sitter visits

Visits per day: _____ Ideal visit times: _____

Minimum visit length that keeps me happy: _____ minutes

Feeding Me

Hay first, always

Hay (needed 24/7!)

I need fresh hay available at all times — it's about 80% of my diet, not a treat.

Hay type (Timothy, orchard, etc.) _____ Fresh hay is stored _____

Veggies & pellets

Meal	Time	Food brand & flavor	Amount	Bowl location

Water bottle located _____ How to refill _____

My daily leafy greens (romaine, cilantro, herbs) & how much _____

Treats & extras

Treats allowed per day _____ Treats live in _____

Foods I go absolutely crazy for _____

My food allergies / sensitivities _____

Pellet portion — please measure, not free-feed _____

Very important

Never feed me: onions, garlic, avocado, chocolate, dairy or meat, iceberg lettuce, rhubarb, or sugary treats — I'm strictly plant-based, and the wrong bite can upset my tummy fast.

Litter Box & Floor Time

Yes, I really can be litter trained!

Litter box located _____ Litter type (paper-based, not clay/clumping!) _____

Litter box clean how often _____ Bedding/hideout clean schedule _____

Floor time / exercise pen — how often & where (bunny-proofed!) _____

Toys & chews I love (teeth never stop growing!) _____

I'm very sensitive to heat

— keep my room under 77-80°F and never leave me somewhere hot or stuffy.

What normal looks like for me

Usual activity level (roughly) _____

Call my humans if you see

- ♥ Not eating hay or refusing food for 6+ hours — urgent, see tip below
- ♥ Few or no droppings, or very small/dry ones
- ♥ Sneezing, discharge, or noisy breathing
- ♥ Hunched posture, teeth grinding, or head tilt

Winnie's tip

My gut has to keep moving! If I stop eating or pooping for even 12-24 hours, it's a real emergency (GI stasis) — please call the vet right away, don't wait.

Medications & Health

If I need a little extra care

My medications

Medication	Dose	When	How to give it to me

Meds are stored _____ Pill pockets / tricks that work _____

Health notes

Ongoing conditions _____

Allergies (food, meds, environment) _____

Past issues worth knowing about _____

What's normal for me

Circle what applies: I binky · I flop dramatically · I thump · I grunt when annoyed

Other totally-normal-for-me things _____

Handle with Love

My personality user manual

I love

Favorite pets & scratches (head? behind the ears? back?) _____

Favorite toys & chews _____

Magic words / sounds I respond to _____

Please avoid

Touches or handling I dislike _____

Things that scare me (loud noises, sudden movement...) _____

Reading my signals

A binky (joyful mid-air jump-twist) or flop means I'm thrilled. A thump means alarm.

Happy me looks like _____

Overstimulated me looks like (please give space) _____

Handling me safely

Always support my hindquarters — my legs are strong but my spine is fragile.

Never let my back legs dangle or kick free, even for a second.

How long I tolerate being held before I get antsy _____

If I ever get loose, I usually head for _____

House Notes

Keeping my corner cozy

Pen/hutch location & comfort

Pen/hutch location (away from drafts & direct sun) _____

Ideal room temperature (cooler is safer — I overheat easily) _____

Rooms I get floor time in — bunny-proofed cords & plants? _____

Home care while away

Plants to water _____

Mail & packages _____

Lights / blinds _____

Thermostat setting _____

Trash & recycling day _____

Supplies map

Extra hay & pellets _____

Cleaning supplies (litter, hutch wipes) _____

Carrier lives _____

First aid / styptic / towels _____

Thank You for ♥ Taking Care of Me! ♥

My humans and I are so grateful. Help yourself to snacks in the kitchen, and please accept payment in binkies and gentle nose bonks.

With binkies,

(my signature — a paw print, if you can catch me)
